Aliso Valley Homeowners Plan Beautification Drive

The board of directors of the Aliso Valley Homeowners Assn. met with the recently elected officers of the local homeowners association last week at the Royal Savings and Loan Assn. in Torocenter for the purpose of formulating specific plans for the greater El Toro area for the coming year.

The board, at this meeting, agreed, to draw a proposed landscaping and irrigation system for Rockfield, Murilands, Geronimo and a section of El Toro Road and then to submit these plans to the county for study.

Board members are also presently meeting with Ralph A. Gates, superintendent of the San Joaquin School District, to set plans for summer youth recreation programs at Olivewood and at the Ralph A. Gates Elementary Schools.

Funds for these submitted projects, according to Jesse S. Frey, vice president of the Aliso Valley Homeowners Assn., were accumulated last year through the county service area #6.

Bob Arp is president of the Aliso Valley Homeowners Assn. who was recently elected to replace Chuck Waltman for the coming year.

Mission Viejo Company Adds Planning Firm

The Mission Viejo Company has retained an economic consultant firm to study speeding up work on the two new commercial centers in Mission Viejo.

James G. Troepfer, Mission Viejo Vice President for planning, announced the hiring which was caused by the predicted growth for the area.

The two commercial and professional centers will be the Village Plaza at La Paz Road and Marguerite Parkway, and the other built on an 80-acre site at the Crown Parkway and the San Diego Freeway.

The Larry Smith & Company will prepare plans for the two projects and ways to speed construction time.

UCI Library Bids Open

Construction bids for a $1.5 million library addition at the University of California, Irvine will be opened on February 6, 1968.

Campus Architect Coulson Tough said the new five-story reinforced concrete structure will form a twin east wing of the existing UCI Library and will more than double its capacity. Construction is expected to start in March for completion in fall of 1969.

A federal Higher Education Facilities Act grant of $844,142 from the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare will help pay for the new building. The rest will be paid from remaining state construction bonds passed by the voters two years ago.

Executive architect for the building is the firm of Jones and Emmons of Los Angeles.

Bids will be received by the University at the UCI Office of Physical Planning and Construction and will be opened at 2 p.m., February 6, in the Executive East Room of the Newporter Inn at Newport Beach.

MV School Opens Soon

Marguerite M. O'Neill Elementary School, Mission Viejo's first grade school will be formally dedicated Friday, Feb. 9, at 1:45, according to Ralph A. Gates, superintendent of the San Joaquin School District.

Highlight of the dedication ceremonies will be the personal presentation of several sets of encyclopedias to the school library by Mrs. O'Neill, who at 88 is the oldest living member of the family which has held Rancho Mission Viejo for several generations.

Gates indicated that a letter is going out to all parents of students attending O'Neill school, inviting them to join Mrs. O'Neill in helping the library get started by contributing one or more books.

Gates added that Mission Viejo's second elementary school, to be located at Pepita and Pericia Drives, is scheduled to be started in mid-February.

Watson Named Irvine VP

Raymond L. Watson's elevation to the position of senior vice president of land development was announced this week by William R. Mason, president of The Irvine Company. Watson has been vice president of the land development division since 1966.

Commenting on Watson's new position, Mason said, "This promotion is in recognition of his outstanding contributions to The Irvine Company's increasingly diversified development program and is in line with his expanded duties resulting from a recent reorganization of the land development division. This reorganization has redefined the functions of the planning, project development and real estate departments in an effort to serve more efficiently all of those organizations which are dealing with the company."

Saddleback JC Sets $9.5 Million Election

The voters of the Saddleback Junior College District will have a $9.5 million bond issue on the ballot at a special election to be held April 9.

The proposed $9.5 million issue (if approved) will be in 20 year bonds with the bonds going on sale subsequent to July 1, the day when the Junior College District officially goes on the tax rolls.

Saddleback President Jack Roper said today the tax rate would not be affected until 1969-70 when a 13 cent raise in the tax rate would be needed for capital outlay. The total tax rate for this coming fiscal year would be 60 cents. This money would be divided with forty cents for operation of the district and the remainder being applied to the districts share in sending local students to other junior college districts.

Saddleback Trustees will hold a special meeting on January 22 to continue their study for the district's campus site. Seven firms presented proposals last week and further information will be given at the special meeting.

Companies which have proposed campus sites are Marina View Heights, Coast Realty, Irvine Company, Mission Viejo Company, Moulton Ranch, Rossmoor, and Macco.

Saddleback Junior College administrative offices are currently located at 25001 La Pax Road in Mission Viejo.

Vets File Now Assessor Urges

County Assessor, Andrew J. Hinshaw, today urged early establishment of eligibility to file for veterans tax exemption.

Only those veterans who entered the service while residents of California, or who were legal residents of California on November 3, 1964, are eligible to receive the exemption.

Hinshaw pointed out that veterans who served during the time of the Viet Nam conflict, since August 5, 1964, may now file for the exemption.

The filing period for veterans exemption on property taxes begins on March 1 and extends through April 15 this year.

Hinshaw stated that establishment of eligibility with his office prior to March 1 would permit the veteran to file his claim by mail.

Editorial Assistant

Jack S. Roper, President and Superintendent of the new Saddleback Junior College said today that he does not expect any serious problems with the use of the quarter system.

A man of vision, Roper foresees a bright future for South Orange County's first community college which opens next September. The expected population explosion for this area will present a tremendous challenge to maintain a high level of education at Saddleback.

Raised in Orange, Roper lives in Tustin with his wife Susan Jo Stroud Roper, formerly of Garden Grove, and their three children: Jennifer, age 10; Lisa, age 6; and Michael, age 4.

Following service aboard the Tanker U.S.S. ASHTABULA which was sunk during the Korean War, he received an honorable discharge from the United States Navy in 1953. Roper like thousands of young Americans returning from war went to college upon arriving home.

Roper spent his first two years at Santa Ana College where he played basketball, baseball, and football. In 1957 he graduated with his Bachelor of Arts degree from Chapman College in Orange, California. Roper obtained his Master of Arts Degree from Chapman in 1962 and is currently completing his Ph. D. at the University of Southern California.

The Saddleback Junior College Board of Trustees picked Mr. Roper this past summer to serve as the college's first President and Superintendent. Finding office space, organizing an office, hiring secretarial help, hiring administrators and department heads, and planning a bond election have managed to keep Roper busy.

Roper said that for Saddleback Junior College to offer classes next fall they must obtain a site and finance its cost. A $9.5 million bond election for buildings and land will be placed on the ballot in a special election to be held on April 9, 1968.

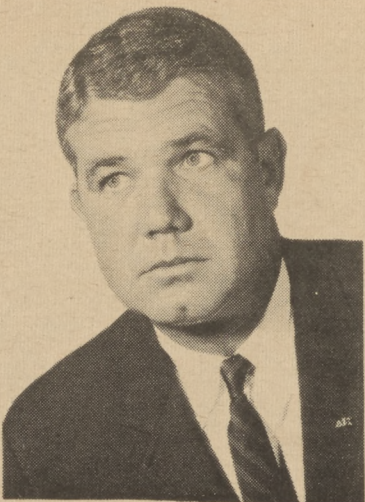

Roper sees Saddleback's purpose as being two-fold: first, to serve the higher educational needs of the community; and second, to reflect the culture of the community in the educational field. The process of providing a place for a "meaningful education," will take four paths; academic transfer, terminal education, vocation training, and community service.

In terms of physical plant for Saddleback, Roper hopes the designer will use the rolling terrain and the Spanish traditions of South Orange County.

Roper believes his job is made easier by the fact the Saddleback Board of Trustees are all highly educated men. The adoption of the quarter system is an example of the understanding existing between the Board and Administrators.

Roper firmly believes that Saddleback will be the place where parents can send their children to obtain a fine education. Students will have a fine physical plant and a curriculum which should interest all residents of the area.

Heil!

I salute you in the manner the board's actions indicate they regard themselves. Now may I turn to four questions to which I request straightforward, clear, and concise answers.

1. What brilliant logic caused the board to act as 'hanging judges' to expel, and thereby turn its back on, seven students in desperate need of understanding and guidance, and, further, severing one of the few remaining ties with society?

2. When is the much promised consideration of the seven man board and area representation going to take place? (The first promise was made almost a year ago.)

3. What are the plans, if any, for the land we received in 'trade' for Area C which now contains Fashion Island?

4. Is the data processing contract still being awarded on a non-competitive basis?

I cannot, of course, close this letter without offering a constructive suggestion to the effect that the board members develop a sense of humility and compassion. For if you persist in your dictatorial and repressive actions, the inevitable harvest will be a revolution of some kind. And sad to say, you will probably wonder why it happened even as you bemoan the ingratitude of these whom you had caged in a well defined and disciplined society. Cages are neither needed nor desired; freedom and the right to engage in controversy are!

Please agendize, read, discuss and make part of the record this letter at the earliest meeting possible.

Very truly yours,

/s/ C. A. Papp

Mission Viejo Sets Plans for Museum

Mission Viejo, has already began collecting items for a museum, according to an announcement by Philip J. Reilly, president of Mission Viejo Company.

Reilly requested members of the O'Neill family, long-time owners of the 53,000-acre Rancho Mission

Viejo, Mission Viejo Company and its contractors, and residents of the community to "be on the lookout for items of potential historic significance."

"Every community," said Reilly, "should have its own museum containing its memorabilia, historical documents and photos, and significant artifacts and relics. We are starting to collect such things now, while they are still available."

"Someday, the Mission Viejo Museum might occupy its own building. But, in the more immediate future, we plan to house our collection in one or two display cases in the Mission Viejo Recreation Club, which will be completed in 1968."
